From Principal's Desk

The most important step we can take toward achieving our greatest potential in life is to learn to monitor our attitude and its impact on our work performance, relationships and everyone around us.

We all have a choice. We can choose an inner dialogue of self-encouragement, self-motivation, or we can choose one of self-defeat and self-pity. It's a power we all have.

Our mind is a computer that can be programmed. We can choose whether the software installed is productive or unproductive.

Our inner dialogue is the software that programs our attitude, which determines how we present ourselves to the world around us. We have control over the programming. Whatever we put into it is reflected in what comes out.

Many of us have behavior patterns today that were programmed into our brains at a very tender age. The sad reality of life is that we continue to hear negative information, but we don't have to program it into our brains.

The most influential voice we hear is our own inner voice, our self-critic. It can work for or against us, depending on the messages we allow.

It can be optimistic or pessimistic. It can wear us down or cheer us on. We control the sender and the receiver, but only if we consciously take responsibility for and control over our inner conversation.

Habitual bad attitudes are often the product of past experiences and events. Common causes include low self-esteem, stress, fear, resentment, anger and an inability to handle change.

It takes serious work to examine the roots of a harmful attitude, but the rewards of ridding ourselves of this heavy baggage can last a lifetime.

School Magazine is a wonderful platform for students to showcase their talents of creativity, writing, ideating, etc. I appreciate the efforts of all the budding writers and artists for making this magazine vibrant. I thank the entire Editorial Team for their good work and support. God bless you all.

Dr. Nicholas Correa
Executive Director & Principal

Editorial

This is a time of massive changes in every sector. The student today is an individual, is a real person with feelings of self-respect, sensitivity, responsibility and compassion. We need to recognize, appreciate, applaud and foster the fine blend of sensibilities in a child – and thus this is to be viewed as a launch pad for the children's creative urges to blossom naturally.

As the saying goes, leaders are built in classrooms'. This humble initiative is to set the budding minds free allowing them to roam free in the realm of imagination and experience to create a world of beauty in words.

This school attains its eminence in the first place through the achievement of children. This magazine also espouses the School spirit which is built up within the school through the collective actions, thoughts and aspirations. All these, I believe would spur higher growth and enterprise in children.

My thanks are due to the Principal, Vice Principal, editor students and teachers to have been of immense help in breathing life into these pages.

Hope the readers will enjoy every word of it and applaud the efforts put into its making Happy viewing and Reading

The school proudly presents its unique creation in the form of the E magazine which serves as a platform to highlight the literary and artistic segment of NHPS family forming a bridge between flowing thoughts and artistic magnification. The magazine also highlights the educational ,cultural and sports activities of the institute.

Students articles have been instrumental in reflecting their literary spirits and ideals.

I appreciate the daunting efforts put in by the team to put together the myriad thoughts into a visual fest. I wish them success for its timely release.

“Micro changes in Life can bring Macro Transformation.”

Children should be taught to think . We should help them to unfold their imaginations and give life to their thoughts & aspirations. The Hands on Learning Activities done in class will unleash a wide spectrum of creative skills. This I believe is the strongest factor for success in raising his self esteem & the most overwhelming key to a child’s success is the attitude by parents by giving the space to the child and not comparing them to others. “The secret of getting ahead is getting started.” So why not give them a jumpstart from the grass root level itself.

We are pleased to present to you , our E-Magazine .It is a milestone that marks our growth, unfolds children’ s imagination to foster a positive learning Environment. Let’s give them a platform to think , express &exhibit their skills.

I congratulate the editorial team for their hard work in releasing this E magazine

Happy Reading.....

“ What you are is God’s gift to you. What you become is your gift to God “

Language is one of God’s greatest gift to humans, given for the purpose of sharing ideas with others. Without leaving our chairs we can go to all parts of the world. We mediate on the wonders of creation. But without the gift of language we would be limited in the ways we can share these ideas. Words help us let others know what we are feeling, how much we care or how our hearts are filled with awe and wonder and gratitude to God for all He has given us.

Our School magazine is a mirror reflecting the creativity of young minds of the school. I extend my warm wishes to continue this journey on the road of excellence. May God Bless us with wisdom.

The destiny in my hands

- Aaryan Aggarwal IX-B

Destiny. The word means the inevitable fate or some events that will necessarily happen to some person in the future. It is however, a notion and not a proven fact, as obviously no one can see the future. People believe that what destiny says is the ultimate truth and absolutely nothing can change it. However, I beg to differ as while it may be inevitable, it will not necessarily be completely unchangeable. To give an example, a person born into a poor family, may believe that his destiny is poverty and nothing else.

However, with enough efforts and determination, he/she may grow up to be very successful. This has led me to believe that destiny is not any actual power or anything that can affect our future. Rather, it is a state of mind that sometimes may lead to demotivation.

This happens because success has never come without failures. In failures, we tend to lose positivity and start becoming negative and their mindset towards life all-in-all becomes negative. This is where we begin to believe that this is what destiny had in store for us and this is exactly what we are going to get. With this preconceived notion, people often lose interest or even give up entirely. However, since destiny is a figment of a person's mind, it can be modified as and when required.

Thus, believing in destiny and hoping that the hardships that you have faced are all part of a bigger plan will give you the motivation to do better and improve. Thus, I believe that destiny, while not being real to some extent can change the course of a person's life. Destiny is not unchangeable, the power to do so lies in your very hands.

A shadow side in me

- Sunit Dighe VIII-A

Your life is in your hands. How to solve your life with ease? That's always a big question in a puzzled mind.

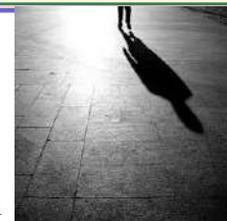

Synchronizing the answer is always necessary. Elaboration the next, first let's understand why you get a human life hereditarily. Until and unless you have solved the Rubik's cube of your life with cases truly hard then you are fulfill to get handout of the running notes written by your mind for a total 70 years. That's not a small value! It's $70 \times 12 = \dots$ etc..

Now what's a shadow side of your life. It's none other than your emotions. Answer to the shadow side of your life in emotions is depression. Not going beyond and deeper in depression. But those who don't know what is depression :-It is the state in which your mind losses thinking, will power and confidence for finding no way in taking the right path for the solution.

Depression acts in making your life a bit difficult. Mind makes all unnecessary savages which have a result 0.

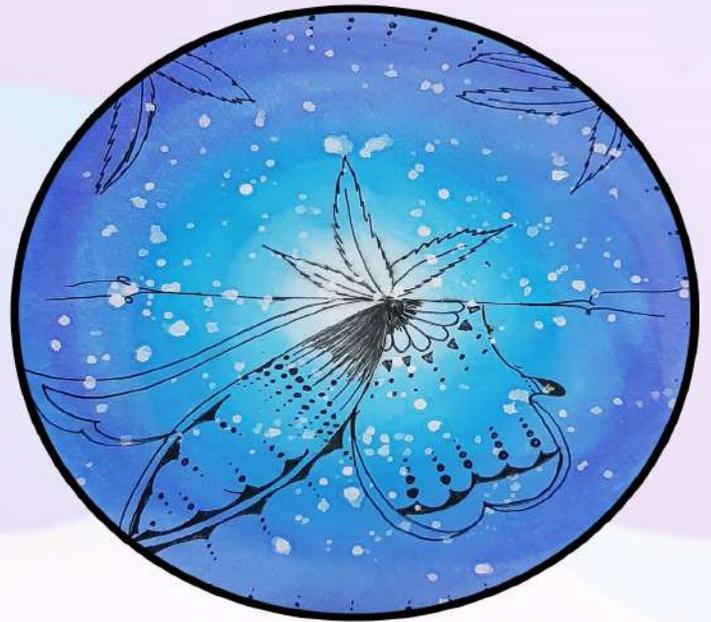

See the matchmaking here, the villain depression has no hero to be defeated. You yourself are a hero but you sometimes fail to take control over depression. So here, motivation plays a extravagant role.

How to solve your life with ease? That was our question in the start. Life isn't easy but definitely you can decide your life. Have a success it's good, defeating all sort of gratuitous emotions is better and thinking optimistically is best. Like with what the quote motivates "only when you illuminate others...without expectation or reward...will you truly understand how to illuminate yourself" only remember don't let you sink your mind sink and your foolish but previous life to sink in the deep disarrayed water.

Self Confidence

Anirudh Shetti VI B

Self Confidence is an attitude that allows you to move forward and achieve your goals. Self confidence means believing in yourself. It is an ability that makes the human believe in himself. For example, Tim was a boy who had a stage fear. One day he was selected for the assembly as a reporter. On the day of assembly, Tim was very scared to go on the stage. Then he thought about Self confidence. Long ago his mother said him that if a person has Self confidence, he can cross away all the difficulties in his life. So at that time, Tim forgot all the fear and became a self confident boy.

On assembly he reported beautifully and he was the best reporter in the assembly. There are some more other positives like positive thinking, concentration, good manners, being kind etc. Like Theodore Roosevelt said “Each time we face fear, we gain strength, courage and confidence in the doing”. I will conclude my article with this quote, “Believe in yourself and you will be unstoppable”.

Pencil

-Aadya Agarwal V

Once I was drawing with a pencil,
But to draw proper shape I need a stencil.
I was using a pencil to write a phrase,
I wrote it wrong, then the teacher said “Erase! Erase!”

I lost my pencil,
But it was with my friend Jencil.
With that pencil I drew a triangle and a rectangle,
But I was not able to find its angle.

In English I had to complete punctuation marks,
With help of that pencil , James drew many sharks.
In science there was a chemical blast,
My teacher said “pencil’s life is very vast”.

Once more I lost my pencil,
It was stuck in my hair.
Once again i lost my pencil,
But this time it was lost in a fair..

Tara's intelligence

- Pritika Manohar kadam VIII –D

Once upon a time there lived a couple near the town. They were just married and expected a child. After a year they had twins. Both were charming. Their names were Yash and Tara.

Tara was expected to do the household work and Yash was to go to school and do a job. Tara was an very intelligent girl so she used to take her brother's old books and study on her own.

One fine day she asked her brother " Why every time I have to do the household work and not study like you ?"Her brother asked many people but got a common answer that girls are not meant to study .

So both of them decided to ask their father . He gave a confusing answer that if Tara wants to go to school , I can help her to learn and write but which school will give her admission? I can't fight for one girl .

She understood what he meant so Tara had an idea about that. She gathered her friends and told them the importance of education .

Next day she gathered them and went to her father and said you won't help one girl (me) so can you help us to study. Her father was impressed by her intelligence.He took them to the principal who was his friend and requested him several times about the admission of the girls.

At last one day he agreed to take the admission of those girls. They started going to school everyday . The problem was all the people were frustrated . They used to throw garbage near their house and also say abusing words . Also stop the ways of the girls for going to school .

They also took the house of Tara and Yash . They used to live in a hut with those girls as well.

The people used to throw stones on them . The girls did not lose their hopes and studied hard . All those after many years started working in office .

The people were proud afterwards and they started a girls school . They gave back house of Yash and Tara.

The ordeal to say a 'goodbye'

-Nidhi Mishra VIII-G

Together we laughed

Together we wept,

Myriad fond impressions, We kept.

Jointly, we danced like daisy

We didn't bother about others,

We chuckled like crazy

Concerning about the fussy was tempestuous.

Together we were scintillating

We were engrossed in,

Our cackles were uplifting

Something was sinister, I remained keen!

That gloominess was undesirable

Not you, but our disunion was near,

Our parting was lamentable

The distance between us was my fear.

Our disunion was forthcoming

I wished I could quit it,

Tears from our eyes were running

With those yet, we had to split.

Years had flown by

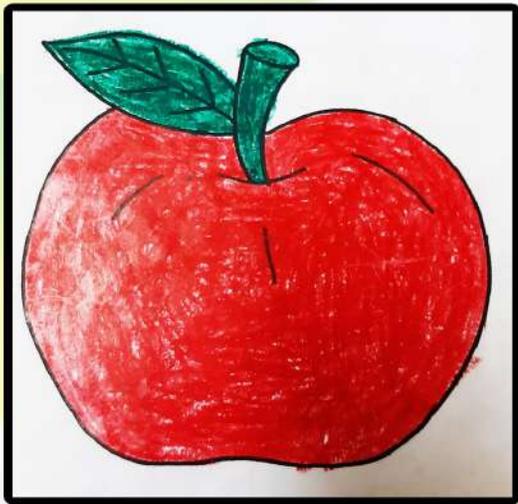

Not the echo,

The ordeal to say a

'goodbye'

And to lose a loyal oppo.

My dream House!!

-Harshith Nair IX-B

Voila! I have shifted to my new house,
Away from those lizards and that cunning mouse.
That was once a basic and simple house,
Now can't get over the whoaas and wowws!!
Ancient doors and artefacts with a palatial tinge,
Enter and you would feel you've got wings.
Vintage artefacts and interiors add to the glam quotient,

A gramophone, an antique telephone, that take you to an era that's ancient.

To me and my brother's surprise, there's an exciting bunk bed,

Now who sleeps on the top, there's gonna be a bloodshed.

I hate boasting but this one's the icing on the cake,

Let me tell you friends, this was a dream, all fake !!!

Friendship

-Divya Johnson VIII – I

Friendship has no form,
sometimes it makes us feel secure and warm,
Sometimes leaves us cold and forlorn,
and sometimes gives us the power to go on.
We mistake it often for something materializing,
but it's free and artistic,
It is hard to catch,
no other virtue has its match.

Friendship

Indomitable Earth

- Poorvi Sanu IX –G

Our global crisis has created a cure
No , A treatment for what is in the store
New seasons simmer , shorelines bore .
Plastics not fake , its sweet
Everlasting, a love we adore .

Are you sure ?
Intestinal hurdle artwork, framed
Mammals fattened by unnatural floating,
Wild material machine . Unseen .
Where does your waste ream ?
What can I do ?

It takes more than one . It takes society
Globally to do what needs to be done .
Our footprint is massive, weighty.

Join Mother Earth ,
On our journey here and abroad
Full of disbelief and open scorn
It's worth the attempt to help her adorn
To help her heal her sores , prevent more welts.

Travelling via train

-Aditya Patil VIII-E

Travelling is a prominent and a fun-learning activity of our life. It introduces us to new people, their culture and enhances skills that are essential in our lives.

Travelling gives a wonderful experience to the travellers especially by train. I am being so sight to write the essay 'cause guess what, "I AM TRAVELLING IN THE BUMPY TRAIN", hearing the quarrels for seats with the bumps of the train.

Train to me is the most favourite mode of transport for long journeys. I am sure even others love travelling via train inspite of the long journey and time. But if its with families or with bachelor friends there's no one stopping them from being happy. During travelling we also get familiar to stops during the journey where people get off and enter. This introduces us to the culture of those regions and that's what makes our India famous and legendary. We also get to eat those India-famous snacks from all over India like 'Shehgaon kachori', 'Kolhapuri misal' and I would stop here or else I know your mouth is watering and you wanna eat this.

This is what travelling is. It increases our general knowledge as we get across so many new things. Travelling by train is much more affordable than aeroplanes ; where we just have to sit and enjoy the luxury. Travelling will also introduce you to all kinds of people like the innocent ones, the fighters, the caring ones who surrender themselves for you and sometimes the people you know. So to enjoy these beautiful moments of life travel once or twice a year to refresh yourselves.

Control Yourself

- Suvan Lokhande IX-A

Controlling yourself is something great that you have achieved in your whole life. Controlling a particular thing with which you get addicted is a big thing. During puberty, children get addicted to various bad things such as food, mobile, T.V. or maybe food.

"Control Yourself Kid!!!!", "Done, not more than this!!!", "Control!!!!" such types of sentences maybe familiar to you which must be said by your mom, dad, teachers and your elders. But that's exactly true, what they say. I know that it's difficult to leave a particular thing with which you get addicted. But still if you leave it , certainly this can make an impact in your life. I mean to say that leave only bad things and not the good things like reading or studying. Believe it, everything is possible in this whole world. If Neil Armstrong can go to moon then why cannot you leave your bad habit. Lets take an example, a boy who likes to eat a lot, he may like to eat Chinese, Continental, Asian and whatever. But you must take care of your fitness too. We can eat whatever we want but in a limit.

If you start practicing such good practices you can surely be the one who has changed his whole life to a certain life.

And these changes can definitely make you proud. At last my opinions may have some differences but, everyday we get to learn something from our daily experiences. And I truly believe that if we make a decision and start opting it in our daily life we can surely ourselves make a change in our whole life. At last I convey that you need to control yourself and follow this motto in your life.....Control Yourself & Be the Change

SELF-CONTROL

Nature

- BHUMESH DADHWAL VII-C

The earth is full of surprises,

Just look around yourself

It can be anywhere around you,

Even somewhere in your bookshelf.

The most surprising is nature,

It's full of different stuff.

It can be a human or thing or even a creature.

We humans made strong big buildings,

And that's what we think is great

But look deep in nature

You will find trees, plants and Animals everywhere.

Some may be mild, And some may be wild!

Mother nature provides us with our needs,

And still we use it for our greeds.

Let's join hands together,

To save this marvelous creation,

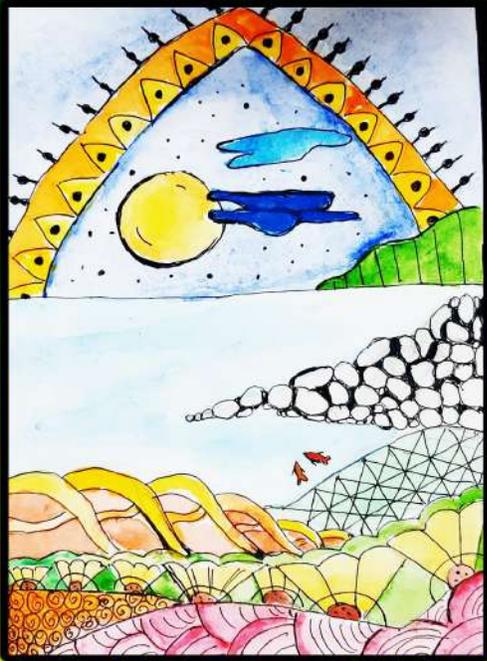

For our next generation.

My Joyful Life

- Rihana Antony II - C

In 2011, my mom gave birth to a cute little girl and named her Rihana. After four years, in 2015, my mom gave birth to one more child , my adorable sibling , Richelle. A few years passed and we grew up. My sister is now three years and I am seven. Every noon and night we go to the garden and play. We leave for home when our mother comes to pick us up from the garden. At 9 o'clock in the evening, we eat our dinner and go to sleep.

Anger Management

- Sfurti Kumbhar IX-A

Anger....The worst of emotions. It causes a LOT of problems. Like damaged friendships, separated families, to list a few. The list is long. But, as many people have tried and failed, controlling anger can be impossible at times when the little fuse in your brain blows off. Let us discuss controlling anger today.

Basically, anger management seems and sounds impossible. But, as it turns out, it isn't. It's really simple. To be honest, I am a cranky person. Even the slightest bit of annoying thing or the face of an irritating person blows my fuse off. So, well, yeah. I'm trying to get it under control. Sort of.

Impossible, right? Managing anger sounds easy. You can distract yourself from the situation. Permanently fix an imaginary meter in your brain which indicates anger level. My meter is always near 50-60. When I say that I'm a cranky person, you can see that I mean it!

As I was saying, the meter. Anytime you feel that the meter is rising, just find some ways to control it. Like the classic, "drink cool water to cool down your warm head", or breathe. Listen to your fav music. Or ask yourself this simple question.

"Is getting angry at this person or screaming at them going to improve my day in any way whatsoever?" If the answer is yes, go ahead. Scream all that you want at the person and improve your day. But if the answer is no, STOP yourself in time. Maybe make yourself an anger dice. Or, breathe in. Out. And maybe the classic as mentioned above.

Frankly, these ways have helped me to reduce my "fuse blowing off" times since grade 4. Anger may be one of the smartest issues, but we are smarter!

You are a masterpiece

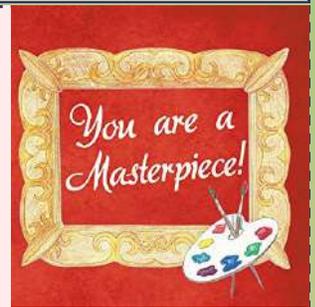

- Tisha Gangar, VIII-A

There are songs in your eyes
Singing lullabies
The voice is so pretty
That it charms in the whole city

There is dance in your smile
With moves in a pile
You make people laugh
With dance as your better half

There is a magical art
Right inside your heart
Painting pictures ,which create memories
That are soothing just like a breeze

You are a Masterpiece
With an end number of skills
Creativity is your strength
Keep safe till the end

Friend

- Nupoor Teli VIII-I

the leaves of a tree;
With your friend
you are always free.

Friend is the moon
of the shining night;
It is the light

that makes your life bright.

Friend is the one who brings out your good;
A friend is the person who makes your mood.

Friend is like

A true friendship is

Have Patience

-Ayush Lonakadi IX- C

Read to the end,
After reading you'll become enlightened,
Because there's something you don't know,
Have patience, let the excitement grow.

I betcha, it's a secret that'll help you lifelong,
No, I am not joking nor am I wrong,
Wait for some time and you won't regret your action,
Have patience, it isn't a wrong decision.

Oh, are you bored of waiting?
I know it's frustrating,

But you are really very close,
Have patience, the secret, now I disclose.

Don't act like a child,
The dose of patience, so very mild,
You have reached so far,
Have patience, the door to the secret, now, is ajar.

Finally, now I'll reveal the secret,
Read closely; all other works, please forget,
There you go, the moment you've awaited for,
One, two, three and then comes four!

Monsoon

-Isha Bhanushali IX -A

The most alluring part in monsoon season is the way people tackle them. Every where you scan, people are struggling back to reach their home back safely and it indeed gives you a sense of achievement when you reach home without getting drained by the gushing water the automobiles blow on you! Well, my case is a little bit different. Every time I attempt not to step inside the puddle ,the next step will certainly be inside it.

It was raining heavily that day and unlike my usual days ,it was a special one. I got dispersed from my classes by 6:00 and not aware about the conditions outside , I stepped outside ,expecting my van to pick me up. Suddenly there was gloomy all around and there was silence everywhere (huh! Because the light went off) and to add insult to injury I got a call from my Sir that the van will be coming 1 hour late.

I after a while made up my mind, I will set out and go on my own. I took my umbrella and set out with my friend. The roads were all muddy and the water reached up to my ankle. The situation got testified as it started raining heavily. We all expected the rain to stop after a while but it was adamant, throwing it's tantrums on us .All over the road there were vehicles parked and there was no way to move.

But not giving up we carried forward to reach our destination. After a long tiring journey of 1km (which took us almost 1hr) we reached our home safely. I had a feeling of accomplishing a big feat that day.

But the climax is here,
I had to listen to my Mom's scolding,
Yes, because I had stepped inside a big puddle!

Soldier

- Marisha Nath VIII-C

Dear soldier, you sacrifice yourself for your nation,
But people think it's your job, not your passion!
You are a warrior,
You are our savior,

You are in the list of God's golden fame,
But alas! No book mentions your name.

Man, Woman, and Equality

Poorvi Sanu IX-G

Why are women considered inferior to men? Why is it so? Even in the olden days, gender inequality was very common.

Sati, widows, shravana, shraddha, managala gaur, akshaya tritiya, child marriage, karva chauth... etcetera, etcetera, etcetera. What do these words remind you of? Yep. That's right. These are all systems for women.

These are sacrifices and systems that women perform for their better halves. So that their spouses have a long and safe life. But what do these spouses do in return? Discriminate these women. Consider them inferior. I think that only about 15% of men give equal opportunities and rights to women.

This number is increasing, no doubt, but then this is a slow process. Men work approximately 6 – 8 hours a day. Women, on the other hand, work at least 16 hours a day. Yet, men get salary and women, in some cases, don't.

To all the men and boys reading this, I have a few questions for you. Do you have the guts to perform all housework with 5 guests in the house? Do you have enough courage to change your surname after marriage? Do you have the guts to leave your ancestral home where you have lived for at least 23 years? Are you ready to be dominated by women? More importantly, are you ready to listen to pungent words from your mother-in-law? And of course, do you guys have courage to bear a child for 9 months and 9 days and give birth and nurture the baby?

Giving birth is simultaneous to fracturing 20 – 21 bones at once. Did men know this? And yet, they consider women weak. They think, that because we're women, we cannot think. If we cannot think, who is Marie Curie? If we are weak, who delivers kids? Women aren't any different. They are children of gods. They aren't your personal secretaries, they are your partners. Only a woman knows how much suffering women go through. And yet, women are discriminated daily.

What women want is love and respect. They work hard for it, they toil day and night, and what they get is... absolutely nothing.

Is this right?

Submission to Peer Pressure

-Akshat Mishra IX -G

"Hey Mohan! When did you get this new iPhone-X", we asked him in surprise as we knew the financial condition of his family. "My cousin gifted it to me", quipped Mohan sheepishly. All the boys resumed playing, but I knew there was something amiss. Peer pressure is becoming increasingly inevitable amongst teenagers. One may argue that it is a part of human nature. It may be pivotal for a human being but its darker side is certainly the more powerful one.

People are easily succumbing to peer pressure without realising its consequences. Just to gain respect in someone's eyes, they are even ready to quarrel with their parents and ward their attention from their necessary activities. A recent survey suggested that the maximum people in a rave are a group of teenagers.

The clutches of peer pressure are so strong that people aren't being able to listen even to their conscience. The youth mostly is just littering around the streets, smoking cigarettes, boozing or becoming a victim to social networks sites like Facebook or Instagram. Human resource is the most valuable resource that we have and the youth are supposed to replenish this resource, not just to become egoists. They are the future of the planet but sadly, they aren't forging the path for mankind that they are supposed to.

Hopefully, there is some resistance against this social evil in modern days. Such people have sworn to stay adamant and not stray from the rightful path. These days of hope do believe in working for the greater good and are spreading awareness and showing the society that peer pressure is deleterious sort individual growth and well being.

“Freedom of Press in Democracy”

- Poorvi Sanu IX-G

A free press and a free judiciary are two very important cornerstones of a democracy. Especially in the modern era of widely accessible news and innumerable information at our fingertips, freedom of press is highly valued liberty that citizens should be aware of and know the reason why it is given to us as Indians. Freedom means those people, who state the liberty, or right and privileged to speak according to their will.

Freedom is that opportunity, which we should never avoid and in all bad situations, it gives us all right to handle the problems in our own innovative and thoughtful way. Press and media are the vital way to express and speech some views and opinions in a democratic country. It is the medium of expressing an opinion of the people. It justifies the individual right to speech and expression, a coveted right enshrined in the Indian constitution and the law of other countries on the globe.

The importance of freedom of press lies in the fact that for most citizens the prospect of personal familiarity with newsworthy events is unrealistic. In seeking out news, the media therefore acts for the public in large. it is the means by which people receive free flow of information and ideas, which is essential to intelligence self-governance, that is in turn, democracy. For a proper functioning of democcracy, it is essential that citizens are informed about news from various parts of the country and even abroad, because only then can they form rational opinions. A citizen surely cannot be expected reasonably to gather news to enable him or her to form such opinions. Hence, the media plays an important role in a democracy and serves as an agency of the people to gather news for them.

It is for this reason that freedom of press has been emphasised in all democratic countries, while it was not permitted in feudal or totalitarian regimes.

In India, the media have a great responsibility also to see that the news they present is accurate and serve the interest of the people. If the media convey false news that may harm the reputation of a person or a section of society, it may do a great damage since reputation is a valuable asset for a person.

Even if the media subsequently correct a statement, the damage done may be irreparable. Hence the media should take care to carefully investigate any news item before carefully reporting it.

I know of a case where the photograph of a High Court judge, who was known to be upright, was shown on a TV channel along with that of a known criminal .The allegation against the judge was that he had acquired the land not in any discretionary quota but in the open market at the market price.Also, sometimes the media present twisted or distorted news that may contain an element of truth but also an element of untruth. This, too, should be avoided because a half-truth can be more dangerous than a total lie. The media should avoid giving any slant to news and avoid sensationalism and yellow journalism. Only then will they gain the respect of the people and fulfil their true role in a democracy.Some newspapers espouse the cause of only one community

“They do not judge problems on their merits. They view problems from a communal angle. Such newspapers do disservice to the nation. On the other hand, some responsible newspapers exercise great restraint while reporting news about riots between two communities. They never give the identity of the community which started the riot. If there are any casualties, they do not give a community-wise break up lest this should trigger off a bigger riot

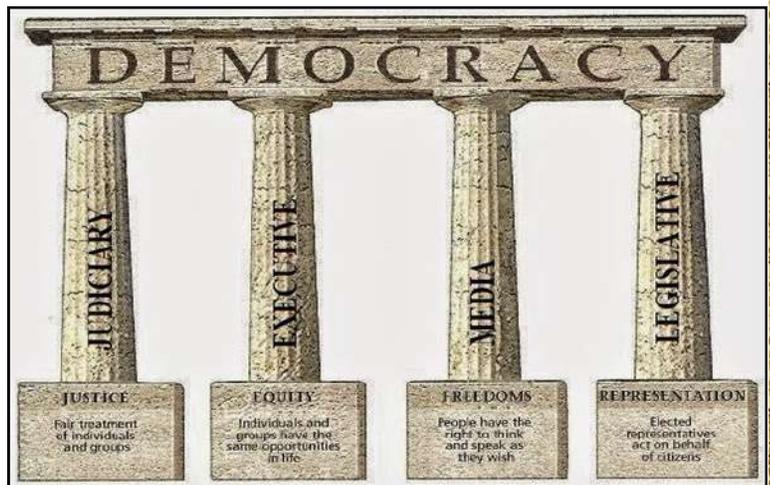

In India, most of the newspapers are controlled by business magnates Such newspapers, therefore, promote the interest of the capitalists by given tainted news. They pay no heed even to the genuine problems of the worker^ farmers, artisans and other weaker sections of the people.

The press is the defender and the protector of the rights and liberties of the people. But it can perform this role only if it enjoys freedom in publishing news, views and reporting. It can function effectively only in an open society, where decisions are made in a democratic manner. The press should not be scared of influential people. The press should consider it their duty to protect the right of the workers and other downtrodden sections of the people.

While the press should enjoy freedom to perform its role effectively, it should not treat such freedom as a licence to defame anybody. It should not publish any views or support any movement which violates our Constitution or is against the territorial integrity and unity of the country.

To the conclusion, As the world’s largest democracy, India has a duty to ensure that the press has the duty to disseminate information and express opinions without excessive censorship. Unfortunately, in recent years, the right has been increasingly curbed. This oppression of press is an alarming trend as it does not allow for proper checks and balances on the government and its activities. The people of our country need to remember that in order to have a strong democracy they need a strong and free press.

Our Future Earth

- Hiya Purswani VIII-B

We all know the present condition of our environment around us. In spite of advanced and modern technology, we humans, are still not able to find a solution.

Early humans neither they had much technology nor they had enough intelligence but still in the early ages, the environment was clean making it the reason for the increasing life span of humans. It's a shocking news to know that the amount of plastic bottles produced now may lead to increase in plastic pollution and cause several death.

It's a great opportunity to be as a human in this beautiful earth, and so it's our responsibility to make it clean. In monsoon, people cut down trees to prevent accidents to occur, but do we plant trees in summer to prevent more global warming? We can prevent bad things to happen but not cannot take that much efforts for good things to spread. Have you ever wondered while seeing a tap open, how many taps are left open at the same time in the whole world? It might sound unbelievable, there can be a World War III on water, land and fresh air. The way we are thinking about the wastage of water may lead us to a massive pain. It's truly said by Warren Buffet, sometimes to buy things we need we have to sell things we do not need. This happens in the case of lacking of intelligence. We say every scholar is a true genius, but in my opinion a person is genius if he has the ability to save and change things in his own way. We all have the ability to save this earth, but our thoughts, our ego and our greediness is stopping us to think in a better way. "Everyone has a good and a bad side in his life. What matters is the part we choose to act upon." This is an excellent thought said by Sirius Black in the movie Harry Potter. It's time to bring a change.

We always have time to do good things, all we need is hope. Spreading awareness is the best idea to bring a change. If everyone stops thinking about their economical needs and start contributing towards the environment by planting more trees, certainly there will be a beneficial change in this world. Neither do we think about the future, nor care about the present. Why not be an optimist and think in a positive way of life? Our studies, our needs, our knowledge will not help us in any way if we don't change. It's not that easy to plant a tree and care for it a whole year, but if we only plant it with all our love, nature is certainly going to care for it. Lastly, I would like to end with a quote "Come forth in the light of things, nature will be your teacher."

Endeavor

- Heet Shripal Kankariya VII-G

It is hard to recall the past,
but good thoughts are forever.
Remember the step you took,
May it be stupid or clever.
Though the time runs out,
your hope should never.

Don't lose it, try and endeavor.

Do your best even if the consequences make your work the worst.

Try and try, and make your work better

It is hard to recall the past,

but good thoughts are forever.

Remember the step you took, maybe stupid or clever.

The Aloof Humans - A curse to mother earth

- Vaijayanthimala Navneet VIII-J

With all the night, strength and gust;
Preserving nature is must,
Mother Nature has been so lucrative;
Let's do something to save her;
Something new and creative'
Let us get pollution under control
Before mother Earth weeps and implores;
Let clean air sweep

Both high and deep
Let the tiny piece of land
Be clean, tidy and neat
Let uncontaminated water be
So that everything doesn't end like the sea
Let the tree stand
'Cause it is more alluring than the seven colour band
Without being loquacious
Mother nature is indeed precious!

The Little girl

- Bhumika Sharma VI-F

I found in a garage,
Near the carriage,
A tiny, little baby girl,
She had cute blue eyes,
Which were very small in size,
And had beautiful hair with a cute little curl.
I wonder why she was there,
And she came from...where?
I then asked a person, passing on the road,

If he knew the merciless who kept her near the horses and toads.
The person replied, "Who cares,
O Madam?...
...For a girl who is denied by her dad and mum.
I felt very sad and cried,
But I saved her, lest she died.
Who will save many such girls?
Imagine a world without these pearls.
Treat them with respect and love,

The Little Guest

- Ashwathy Ganesh VI -D

It was rainy season
At home came a pigeon
It made its nest and was a pest
But there came another guest
Who shooed away the little pest
First there was nothing but a basket of twigs
And I watched it eating figs
When the thunder came with the rain
I got a bit scared
But it didn't fly away
Because I took care

Soon there were three small eggs
Which were taken care of by the guest
The bird is easy to guess
Because it doesn't make a mess
With its red tail
It looked a bit frail
Between the plants green full full
Was the nest of the little Bulbul

The Art of Dharma as per Mahabharata

- Abhishek Singh [Teacher, Sr.Secondary]

Dharma means the Duty or Righteousness. Dharma is subtle, many times, we are forced to take wrong means for right means (and ends us like Arjuna in hell) or reaches wrong ends following right means (like Yudhishtira in exile). It's like the Ying and Yang Duryodhana's envy for the Pandva's Indraprastha and Yudhishtira's greed, or addiction, to a game of dice and win more territory was the main cause of war.

The envy can result in healthy competitiveness raising oneself up by making the envious work harder, for rival's possessions, or eternal sickness to pull the rival down. The envy and greed are both presents even in the modern day world, the failure of communism was caused by envy among citizens while the capitalist system is stranded by greed. The aim of society should not be to suppress these feelings among its citizens but to channelize them productively. Envy is the vice of socialism, Greed is the evil of capitalism.

Dharma is not justice; Its difference between Retributive Justice and forgiveness. While a nation with stronger legal laws can prefer justice over peace, the newly created or war-torn nations with weaker legal laws should prefer to restore peace and harmony in society rather than emphasizing justice.

Beware! You are in for a scare!

- Ayush Lonakadi IX-C

I had returned home late but after reaching home I had wished I had not reached home that day. There was no electricity, which just made it creepier. When I reached my room, my exhaustion made me forget that I was famished. I lay on the bed scrolling down pictures I had recently clicked. I relived happy moments but someone out there wasn't happy to see me happy and I noticed a photograph in my phone which bemused me – not mentioning how frightened I had become.

The picture was....was....how can I explain? The background was of my house. In the photo.....I was sleeping! But...but... how could that have been possible? I lived alone; there was no one to click my photo while I was sleeping. I was petrified with my eyes wide open and my whole body was horror-struck.

Then, all the unwanted noises came into focus – the noises from outside, noises of something creaking and the wind forcefully blowing through the thin slit of the window eerily.

I was panic-stricken! I quickly switched my phone off and kept it on the table beside and did not bother about changing my clothes and covered my face with a blanket and hugged it tightly. I could not even think of sleeping. Every second the clock ticked, I hugged the blanket harder. My face and chest were drenched in sweat. I felt some supernatural movements around me; something trying to reach out to me.

By then, I was praying to God to take me away from that place; I was ready to die. Then, something happened and I became frantic from tip to toe. 'It is Tuesday today.' The virtual assistant of my phone said but I clearly remembered that I had switched off my phone. Who asked the question? It was this trauma that I couldn't bear and today, I am here, telling you this story after turning into a roaming soul. Look to your right, I am right beside you.

Travelling

Aaryan Aggarwal IX - B

Travelling is an experience. It doesn't matter where you travel. Every place is great in its own ways. You could go to a culturally rich yet underdeveloped place or you could go to an advanced metropolitan place. You could travel slow paced or you could be adventurous and go off the beaten path. You could go to the beach, you could go to a museum. It won't matter as wherever you go, you will always get a new and different experience. The experiences will open your mind to a whole new world and culture which will change your understanding and preconceived notions about that place. You will also get an opportunity to detoxify yourself from social media. Thus, I believe that travelling is more than just a hobby and can change your entire thought process and state of mind.

- Rochelle Ann Teddy IX-D

She lived under a rock
More by force than by will
She lived there so long
She had nothing to fight with
All these people, pushing her down

Her feeble frame could fight no long
She vowed to never stop the struggle
Until she had on her temples the crown

Declaring to the world her change
after years bygone

From being the young shy girl they saw
But all this struggle slowly had her crumbling
As she withered , her dreams fading

Cause promises are sometimes left undone
When fate decides to yield a gun
And the world never saw the light
Of a wallflower wishing to shine so bright

Being Myself

-Nidhi Mishra VIII-G

I did never lie to myself
Never strived to be someone else,
And so I never shy
To look myself straight in the eye.
I did never hide myself

And lavish a priceless gift,
Having 'life' as its spell
Being myself, I'll uplift.

Life is too short
Don't be someone else,
A onetime offer we have got
Even more precious than a thousand jewels.

Women Empowerment

- Devangi Dongre VII-B

The abilities of women in making decisions, education, and profession have been largely suppressed since ages, considering them inferior to men. The situation is worst in underdeveloped and developing nations where women in a family are not allowed to take financial decisions or decide on matters regarding their own education. With such state of affairs, it would be a fallacy to dream about the goals of sustainable development and gender equality. There is an instant need to take measures to lift the social, personal and professional status of women, bringing them shoulder to shoulder with men. These particular measures constitute a process, which is known as "Women Empowerment". Providing better education and employment opportunities to women, ensuring their better health, providing justice and ensuring professional equivalence, are the few methods of women empowerment.

LunaVenture: Beyond Horizons

- Aaryan Aggarwal, IX-B

He looked from afar at his towering creation. A remote island in the Pacific Ocean seemed like a great refuge after what had been happening on the Earth. He chose secrecy as his mission had raised many eyebrows. The plan was simple, 'Escape and start over'. Right now, Moon seemed to be the most viable option in terms of survival. The research had been done, Moon was habitable. So close to our abode, our cosmic neighbor, the Moon, must exist for a reason. It will not just be a secondary habitat but also be a stepping stone for further progress. His meticulously crafted plan was now just minutes away from execution. A team of four explorers would first leave Earth and explore the Moon to test his hypothesis. Once a temporary colony using genetically engineered pods containing human embryos is set up, they would further analyze the surroundings and find ways to make it more habitable. The lesser gravitational pull, which allowed for a comparatively lower escape velocity made it easier to transport resources from the Earth or the ISS. Sure, it would be difficult at first, Earth is unmatched, but he knew it was for the greater good of mankind. It would mean more opportunities and help us understand our place in this universe. Right now, we have confined ourselves in a box and this is the only way to leave it and unleash the wonders of the universe. In front of his eyes, it flew, never to come back...

Television: Pros and Cons

- Soumya Sheth VIII-I

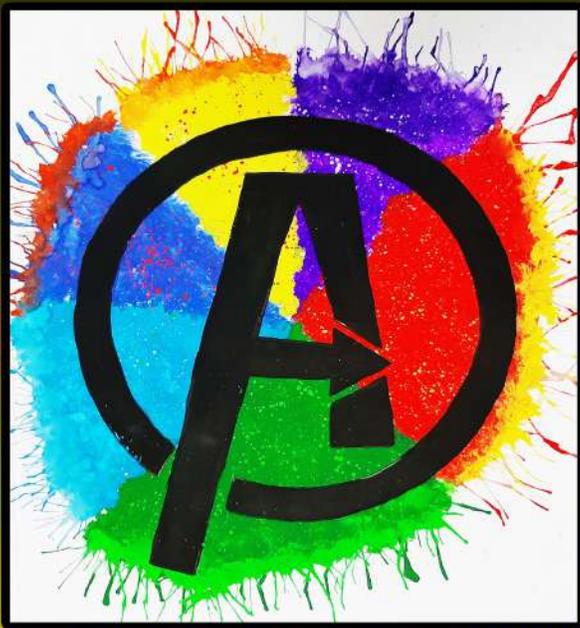

What do most of the people do these days to entertain themselves? Everyone likes to switch ON their television sets, which is one of the exceptional inventions of science. When our Dads come home tired after office, the first thing they would like to do is, switch On the TV and relax while watching it from his sofa seat. This is because while watching different things that are broadcasted on TV, we forget our worries and regrets of the day.

However, like every good and popular inventions, television also has its set of some worrying habits that people get hitched to. For example, sometimes kids watch it for extensive time, thereby affecting their studies. This is one of the most worrying habit for parents and we should know that ignoring studies is not good for our future and studying is as much important for us at this tender age more than anything else. It's true that television can bring us the knowledge from across the world. We can see different parts of the world virtually sitting at the same place. But, we should know how we can use this incredible invention of science in the right and beneficial way for us. Now-a-days, Smart TVs have become even more popular. We can even use internet on those TVs. Use Google to search for answers we don't know, use YouTube to understand how things are made or get our doubts cleared and much much more.

To summarize it, I would like to urge all my fellow students to use this precious invention of science in a way that will benefit you to gain constructive knowledge and avoid destructive knowledge. We should know that television is not the world but only a small component of this world. Please know that there are other things in life which we should enjoy too along with giving utmost importance to our studies.

The night before the final examination

-Marisha Nath VIII- C

The night before the final examination appears to all examinees as the night before the Battle of Waterloo might have appeared to Napoleon or the Duke of Wellington. Our system of education being what it is, we examinees are bound to be anxious about the nature of the nature of the questions we will have to answer next day. Even an earnest student who has done all that needs be done by way of nervousness, uncertainty and suspense on the night before the examination. The morning of the examination finds them prostrate with nervous disorder.

But this is one side the picture. There are students who may be described as soldiers of fortune. They are daredevil youngsters who do not take their examinations seriously. But their lack of preparation is more than made up for by the short cuts or bazar notes they have provided themselves with. Even on the night before the examination they would be going about their daily rounds. They may be found in the parks, cafes and restaurants talking about tips –talking glibly and confidently about what questions are sure to come. The morning of the examination finds them as cheerful as they were on the night before.

What is needed most is self-confidence and a cool head. True, we do not remember all that we have read when we go to the Examination Hall. This does not mean that we have forgotten them. Many things remain in the sub –conscious region. They jump into consciousness when we face the questions and seriously think of the answers. Often such answers score more marks than prepared ones.

Once I had been to the Chocolate Land
Chocolate all around to the reach of my hand
Toffees, candies, lollies and bars
In my mouth a crunchy, munchy war.
White, dark, nutty and sweet
Just like a dreamy treat
Colourful wrapper, shiny and bright.
Which one to choose, which would be right
Houses made of chocolates and doors made of bars

And out stood there a

Soon after it was 6 o'clock
And could hear the door's knock
I woke up in a hurry
Just to realise that it was a dream!

The ant and the elephant

- SOUMEN RAO IV-E

Once upon a time in a forest there lived an ant and an elephant. The elephant was the biggest among all the elephants. So he was very proud of himself and used to criticize everyone and the ant, which was the tiniest among them, was very happy and cheerful. It used to help everyone in its own way.

All the animals in the forest used to complain about the egoistic elephant. So one day when the ant saw the elephant walking towards it, it immediately thought of a plan. As soon as the elephant came near, the ant said, "Hello! My friend" but the elephant replied rudely saying, "You tiny ant! Get off my way otherwise you'll get crushed to death."

Hearing this ant challenged the elephant saying, "My big friend, I can make you cry". The ant quickly climbed onto the trunk of the elephant and ran towards its ear. It went inside the ear and started biting the elephant's ear. The elephant tried to flap its ears but in vain. After a few minutes tears started rolling down its eyes. It cried, "Please come out of my ear, I can't bear the pain." As soon as the ant came out, the elephant apologized for its mistake and didn't tease any animals from that day.

Water Conservation

- Paarth Bhagat, VII-J

Water is life! If there was no water, there would be no life! Hence water is the precious gift of God to mother Earth. We cannot imagine our lives without water.

We human beings are made up of water, it is the only transportation medium that carries the food molecules and oxygen to the cells of every body parts to help the blood. It signifies that water is the most essential ingredient to the functioning of life of every organism.

So you see living this wonderful life is impossible without water!

Water is the force behind all the industry, agriculture, manufacturing and trade and commerce. All forms of energy generation is done using water. Be it hydroelectrically projects, or thermal power plant, or nuclear power plant, water is the key ingredient in all of them. There would be no power without water! No water, no life!

So it is our responsibility to conserve this life nectar. It is possible only through by changing our outlook towards this wonderful natural resource. We must ensure there is no pollution of water bodies by dumping any waste such as, sewage, effluents, and other toxic substances. We must also ensure there is no emission of green-house gases into the atmosphere. The people and the government must ensure installation of effluents and smoke treatment plants at industrial, garbage, and sewage units.

The kind Fairies

-Ovi Vichare III-D

This story starts with two beautiful babies in a kingdom called fairyland. The babies were very pretty. Their names were Ovi and Riddhi. They were growing pretty well. As they grew, they became more and more pretty. Over and over, they were also fairies and within 5 years, they became young girls. Their mother told them to go to school. The girls asked, "where are the schools?" . There are no schools here. Mother said, "don't worry", you will go to the planet Earth. On the planet Earth, there is a very good school named New Horizon Public School and the short form is nhps. We said ok. On the first day of our school, we were very afraid but, after a few days , we became more smart than the others. We were getting a lot of prizes which we shared with everyone in the school. This made us and others happy. One day We became the princess of fairyland. Our wings were like a rainbow. We were twins and had very long hairs.. Now I end my story with a beautiful quote.

ALWAYS HELP EACH OTHER LIKE THE FARIES BECAUSE HELPING PEOPLE IS THE

The Day I'll Never Forget

- Saranya Sarangi VIII-A

It was a day of love and affection
There was no visible sign of caution,
But something unfortunate was going to happen
Nobody knew where and when.
There was a blast at half past three
In a beauty land called Paradise On Earth,
A complete silence and pity hadn't the thee
Perished laid the martyrs,
Whom our motherland gave birth.
I still remember that scaring sight

The scattered limbs I couldn't see,
My heart got filled with grief and fright
No Indian could glee.
Terribly writhing the soldiers were seen
Some families languished and some were crying,
So loyal to their country they had been
None of their families were mollifying.
Whatever homage to our martyrs we pay
Tiny before their they lay
Salute to their tribute to motherland
To protect us they always walked hand in hand.

Looking at the sky,
I wish I could fly.
I never disturb you!
I live peacefully in my beautiful kingdom,

O human! Then why do you steal my FREEDOM?

Summers in India

- Saranya Sarangi VIII –A

A hot season beginning from April till May is what we call summer. And that's the basic rule in India. But that's not something through which we can define summers in our country India. The sun shining high above the head, increasing the heat and this scorching heat is something very unique about summers in India. Those ice-lolly stalls roaming down the streets, tinkling their tiny bells is something special one will never find in any other country. Many people love this season.

Especially the children as they get to eat ice-creams! Many people even don't. As they feel that this season can only make a person dehydrated, exhausted and irritated. Summer, as we think as an unfruitful season is contrast in reality. Schools conduct summer camps during vacation where students can join different academic and co-curricular courses to improve themselves.

Many children even spend time with their families.

Often families plan trips to different places as they get a very long vacation during this season. But now-a-days due to increasing heat, these pleasant summers are becoming unbearable. Every just sweat and sweat. We get a lethargic feeling, not ready to do any work. Due to this heat we continually keep the ACs on which consume a lot of electricity, creating trouble for our mother Earth and us. Gradually, that charm of the unique kind of summers will be lost if precautions are not taken. We must really hope and work hard to bring back our lovely, 'Summers in India'.

Exams are good or bad ?

- Nupoor Teli VIII-I

In my humble opinion, exams are a pressure on the students. They are forced to study and score good marks, which can lead to frustration. An environment of competitiveness of standing first is created for which students keep on studying day and night without any recreation. It is good to study, but not just for the sake of gaining marks.

Why do we study? What is the main intention behind education? Seeking interesting and fascinating knowledge as well as facts about the world. But now-a-days, the main reason for studying is gaining marks. If there are no marks, no career and no success. This is the mindset of 70% people of the world, especially parents. They pressurize their children so much that they get depressed or sometimes attempt suicide as well.

Every two months an exam is conducted. Moreover, there are projects, subject-enrichment activities, chapter test after every topic, notebook/file submission etc. And as a cherry on top of the cake, we have the semester exams of eighty marks as well. What all will the students do? And even if any extracurricular activities are being learnt, then more extra studies. Just study, study and study.

Why so much of tension on the children? Under this tension only they start cheating. As time passes, cheating becomes a habit of their life.

I feel that exams should be conducted once a term in order to evaluate whether the students are clear with the concepts or not. They shouldn't be pressurized for their marks, but should be made understand their mistakes. Let them choose their own career options on their own. Help them know what they like to study and what they want to do in their life. So, don't pressurize students for what they don't like and encourage them in what they do. After all, they are only the 'Rising stars of the country'.

Life is magical

- Piyush Sahoo VII-H

A new day or a new night,
Everything in life seems bright.
A new morning or a new evening,
Life is full of happening.
A life is just like a kite,
It may disappear in a sight
Life moves from baby to old,
Make your life challenging and bold.

Enjoy life the fullest
Never accept less than best
Unlikely life comes to an end,
But remember never to bend.
Happy, sadness, victory and loss
Accept it the way it comes
Life can be at times tragical,
But make it the most beautiful.
Life is magical....
Life is so magical....

Humility

- Rochelle Ann Teddy IX-D

Humility is having a heart to treat others with respect and love. Considering people worthy of your love, time and efforts regardless of who they are or what they have done. A person is truly humble when they are willing to work hard for others expecting nothing in return.
Humility has the power to change a person's perspective towards life. It can make a difference in the way a person is looked upon by others. Doing an act of humbleness can make a person's day. Humility is about not having an ego or considering things below your dignity or considering yourself greater than others.
People often confuse humility with self-respect. They can't make out the difference between being useful to others and being used by others.

It takes courage to be humble, because in the era in which we live humility is looked upon as weakness. People assume you're not strong enough to stand up for yourself. They think you surrender instead of protesting. They will despise and scorn you but they don't know that you take pleasure in what you do because they haven't experienced that kind of joy.
So, if you do have humility don't draw back from it because of what others think. Whatever you are doing is for the good of others and you have no need to be ashamed of that. Humbleness will spread from person to person. Who knows, maybe your one act of humility will spread on to help a person in need. So be brave, be humble!

Mom

- Tanvi Sawant VII-C

Oh mom I came to this beautiful world, just because of you....
Mom what would I do without you?
Oh mom there are thorns on the way
But you manage to get me away....
Oh mom I can't say how much you're to me

Mom just promise me that you'll and always be with me...
Oh mom this world is incomplete without you
Just like the sky without it's bright color blue...
Oh mom you're the candle, that showed the way in the dark,
My dear mom you made my life spark.

OUR FUTURE EARTH

- Hiya Purswani VIII-B

We all know the present condition of our environment around us. In spite of advanced and modern technology, we humans, are still not able to find a solution.

Early humans neither they had much technology nor they had enough intelligence but still in the early ages, the environment was clean making it the reason for the increasing life span of humans. It's a shocking news to know that the amount of plastic bottles produced now may lead to increase in plastic pollution and cause several death. It's a great opportunity to be as a human in this beautiful earth, and so it's our responsibility to make it clean. In monsoon, people cut down trees to prevent accidents to occur, but do we plant trees in summer to prevent more global warming? We can prevent bad things to happen but not cannot take that much effort for good things to spread.

Have you ever wondered while seeing a tap open, how many taps are left open at the same time in the whole world? It might sound unbelievable, there can be a World War III on water, land and fresh air. The way we are thinking about the wastage of water may lead us to a massive pain. It's truly said by Warren Buffet, sometimes to buy things we need we have to sell things we do not need. This happens in the case of lacking of intelligence. We say every scholar is a true genius, but in my opinion a person is genius if he has the ability to save and change things in his own way. We all have the ability to save this earth, but our thoughts, our ego and our greediness is stopping us to think in a better way. "Everyone has a good and a bad side in his life. What matters is the part we choose to act upon. "This is an excellent thought said by Sirius Black in the movie Harry Potter. It's time to bring a change. We always have time to do good things, all we need is hope. Spreading awareness is the best idea to bring a change. If everyone stops thinking about their economical needs and start contributing towards the environment by planting more trees, certainly there will be a beneficial change in this world. Neither do we think about the future, nor care about the present. Why not be an optimist and think in a positive way of life? Our studies, our needs, our knowledge will not help us in any way if we don't change. It's not that easy to plant a tree and care for it a whole year. if we only plant it with all our love, nature is certainly going to care for it. Lastly, I would like to end with a quote" Come forth in the light of things, nature will be your teacher."

No more my little song Come back
And now of nights I lay my head on down,

Another dawn will come

Floods and Destruction

- Nirvi Soni IV-H

India faces occurrence of floods each year in some parts of Assam during the rainy season. Water of river Brahmaputra rises and enters into many villages causing great destruction. Floods are unavoidable but we need to take precautions in the following ways by reducing mining activities, building dams, growing more trees etc. During floods the weather becomes wet and gloomy. Trees and plants get uprooted. This way floods cause great destruction to both life and property. It also becomes difficult to travel from place to place. Many people are left homeless. The rain water should be harvested and stored in large storage tanks. The harvested rainwater can be used for washing clothes and cleaning. By using rain water in our daily life we can preserve water resources .

Good Morning Everyone !!!

-Vyomi Thakkar, VI - H

We'll go on a walk,
Don't worry, will have a great talk.
Roaming around the ground,
With beautiful bird's sound.
We don't know if anything will be found,
We'll surely find the crown.

Up on the chilled mountain,
We saw a beautiful fountain.
Surrounded by a beautiful castle,
Decorated with the colourful tassel.
Just be quiet and keen,
Soon you will be the queen

Think before you speak,

There are still places left for you to seek!
Think before you speak,
There is a long way to go before you sleep!
Think before you speak,

GLOBAL WARMING

- Adhyant Singh VII-F

Global warming refers to the steady rise in the Earth's mean temperature. The effect of global warming had come into sight when polar ice caps started melting this phenomena is called ICE – ALBEDO, the ice caps melt faster due to the rise in the temperature. This sudden rise in the temperature near the poles began in 1999. The polar ice caps in Antarctica melt at the rate of 400,000,000,000 tons per year, according to some scientists it would approximately take 5000 years to melt the total ice on earth. In 2013 Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) stated that the main cause of Global warming is human intervention like emission of Green house gases like Carbon-Di-Oxide, nitrous oxide and methane.

These gases trap the heat which is reflected by the Earth's surface thus increasing the temperature and also destroying the ozone layer which prevents the ultraviolet rays of the sun from reaching the earth's surface. Also burning fossil fuel contributes to the problem. Effects of global warming have also led to the increase in the sea level and extreme weather like heat waves and change in the regional pattern of precipitation and the expansion of deserts. A concentrated and focused effort by the entire humanity can curb down the impact of Global warming and also prevent it. Planting more trees to control the amount of carbon-di-oxide, eliminating the use of chlorofluorocarbon or (CFC'S) are a few steps. All the countries have signed up with the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) to prevent the doomsday of Earth. So to prevent earth's doomsday we all must work together.

It's not too late there is still time.....Before the earth ends and we whine.....So keep on marching and planting greens To end Global Warming and Make our planet green...

The Night

It's the night,
The moon is white,
When we switch off the light,
What a beautiful sight.

After this comes the sun bright,
There is no more artificial light,
This is the time to start your diet,
To go for a run wearing tights.

Then comes the evening when you have snacks light
And fly a big colorful kite, or include your sibling in a pillow fight.

Again comes the night,
A moon which is white,
We switch off the light,
A beautiful sight.

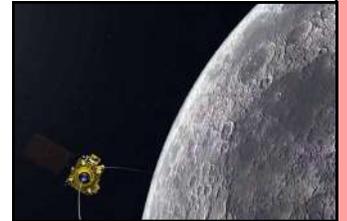

INDIA'S JOURNEY TOWARDS TECHNOLOGY AND SPACE

- Sakshi Shetty VII-J

A little known fact, India today has end-to-end capabilities in space. The country builds and launches its own heavy duty rockets, designs and fabricates some of the most sophisticated satellites. In a singular achievement, India's Mars Orbiter mission or Mangalyaan, an unmanned satellite today racing to rendezvous with the red planet, making India a part of a select club of 6 that have dared to undertake the over 680 million kilometer journey. The Indian Space Research Organization, ISRO is the Space Agency of Government of India headquartered in the city of Bengaluru. Its vision is to "harness space technology" for national development while pursuing space science research and planetary exploration.

Some achievements of ISRO in 2017

- Launching 104 satellites with one rocket
- South Asia Satellite (GSAT- 9) launch.
- Launch of ISRO's 'Fat Boy'
- 31 satellites in a single flight.
- Sending another communication satellite in the space.

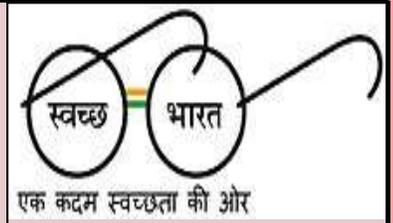

In 2009, India's maiden mission to the moon, Chandrayaan- 1 brought back the first clinching evidence of the presence of water on the arched lunar surface. In more down to the Earth missions Indian satellites are also helping locate underground water aquifers for some of the poorest and marginal people of India. In a way, India's space technology is helping everyone.

Hyperloop

-Rochelle Ann Teddy IX-D

Human inventions have baffled the world. They are innumerable ranging from revolutionizing smartphones to not-so-breathtaking ice cream cones but they play a role in our life just the same. The things which are commonplace to us now were unbeknownst to people once upon a time. For the people of the 19th century the car was a thing of the future until in 1885 Karl Benz ran his first car on the road. Then for centuries people took the prospect of flying like the birds as only a wild possibility which was made possible in 1903 when the Wright Brothers flew the first plane.

What is the 'thing of the future' for us. Well we are the future, modifying and bettering the things that have been made and crating stuff that we didn't even dare to imagine about. The Hyperloop fulfills both aspects of the definition, a very advanced model of our faithful train and yet a brand new idea to scale greater heights. The Hyperloop is an ideal mode of efficient transport. It's heap and faster than a normal aeroplane with a speed of 7000 miles per hour. It's amazing speed is due to two simple reasons. It doesn't have to ace the two types of friction that every other vehicle has to face. Air resistance and ground friction. The pods of the Hyperloop are propelled through a depressurized tub. Since it is almost vacuum very little air resistance can be offered inside the tube. Due to this the energy required to travel is also very less. The Hyperloop's unique technology uses magnetic levitation to guide and lift the pods of the rail. Since the pod is not in contact with the ground there is no friction acting on it. The first Hyperloop – virgin Hyperloop one is set to run with passengers as early as 2021 and is created by SpaceX and Tesla.

The mastermind behind the Hyperloop is Elon Musk who first published a 58 page white-paper on the website of his company-Space X. It was available to all and was titled 'Hyperloop alpha'. The Hyperloop may be the pioneer of a whole new era of transportation traveling a distance which would otherwise take 12 hours in just I hour it has crossed all known boundaries and created higher limits for us to reach and reach we must for when time is money and money is time an option that saves both needs to be used.

Who influenced me and how?

- Aaryan aggarwal IX-B

Life is all about interactions. You meet people and you interact. You observe them, consciously or sub-consciously and learn. Mere observation teaches us more than we even realise. Some people leave a lasting impression on us and entirely change the course of life, for better or for worse. Some people influence us, help us go further and make all the difference.

I feel that in my life, my parents are the most influential people. They have taken care of me ever since I came into this world. They are the ones who wish the best for me and want me to succeed, no matter the circumstances. They have taught me lessons that I feel no one would ever teach. Lessons that have now become a part of my personality. They are the ones who helped me rise up from difficult times and inspired me to be better.

When I used to feel sorry over my mistakes, they are the ones who made me realise the importance of mistakes. Every action of theirs is a new and unique learning experience. It has made me realise how everything they do has a reason. They are the ones who have taught me the importance of the little things in life. They are the ones who have helped me recognize and follow my passion. The very thought of them not being a part of my life is scary to the least as without them, I would be quite lost and confused. Where I am today and whatever I have achieved is all because of them and I am very grateful of that.

Eyesight

The tired little girl, went to bed,
Recollecting the days bygone,
Seeing them in her dreams,
As the day she was born

Trying to see the world,
With her little eyes,
But, the sun, with his brightness,
Wouldn't let her catch the sights

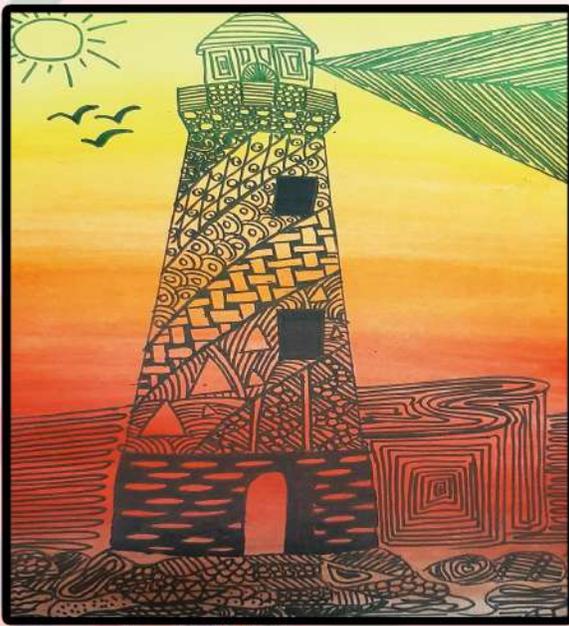

The girl still eager,
And curious to see the world around her,
Again opened her eyes,
But her vision was blurred

Still she did not lose hope,
Which flowed through her blood,
Encouraging and pushing her,
To see the world further

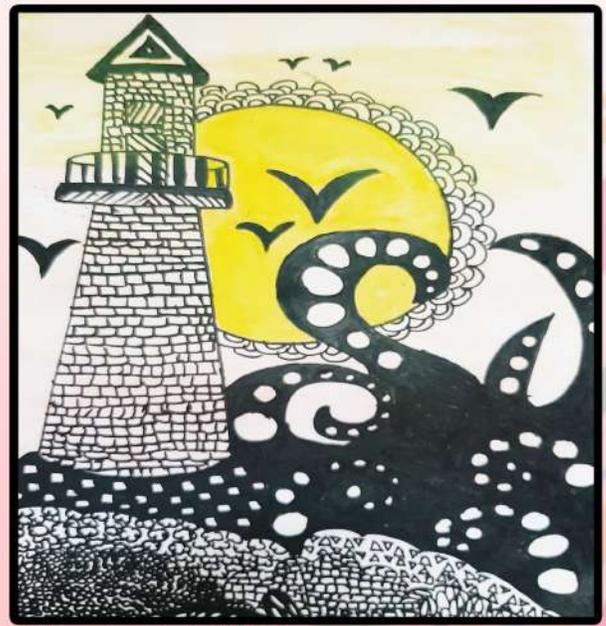

Her heart beating fast,
Her enthusiasm increasing,
She slowly tried to see,
With her eyes continuously blinking

Starting to lose hope,
She was ready to give up,
But curiosity got the upper hand,
And pushed her forward

With her hope again rising,
and strength in her eyesight,
She is finally seeing the world,
With wide open eyes.

Conquering the space

-Marisha Nath VIII-C

“There is no failure in Science, it is only continual effort to conquer the unknown. On the way even if we face failure it rather adds more value to our effort for our next journey to know the unknown”.

Chandrayan-2, India’s Moon Mission. The dream of entire India to land on moon and become the 4th Nation in the world to put its flag on the soil of moon after USSR, USA & China.

ISRO (Indian Space Research Organization) launched Chandrayan-2 on 22nd July 2019 from Bengaluru (Satish Dhawan Space Center) under the command of ISRO chief K. Shivan. It consists of ORBITER, LANDER & Lunar Rover PRAGYAN. Like Chandrayan-1(22nd Oct,2008), it was India’s indigenous moon mission.

It touched the Moon Surface on Saturday early morning 7th Sept 2019. In its 15 minutes of landing schedule, 13 minutes went perfectly fine but at the last moment at a distance of 2.1 Km from the surface of moon, it lost contact with the ground station. Because of this the landing velocity of VIKRAM could not be monitored and was forced to do hard landing at 500 m (approx.) away from its assigned location near SOUTH POLE of the moon. But the ORBITER is still orbiting fine around the moon and trying to exchange signal with VIKRAM whenever it is flying over it. The ORBITER which will remain active for another 12 months is now mapping the permanently shadowed portion of the moon for the first time in history with the help of its high-resolution camera.

The entire Nation irrespective of their field of knowledge & business spent a sleepless night in front of TV with ISRO during its live monitoring of VIKRAM’S landing. It was a big shock to us, all true Indians who always dream progress and development of their motherland. But our heart never accepts this as a failure, rather we consider it a great achievement for us as we have succeeded in achieving 95% purpose of our mission.

But still few politically motivated traitors’ mocks at this and tweets online in tune with the neighboring country quoting this as a big failure on part of India blaming present Government for wasting country’s money on this!!

Feel sorry for their inadequate knowledge as all will be surprised to know that the overall expenditure to this mission is just 1/4th of the budget spent by other nations on such missions.

Further I should say that, India is not new in the field of Space Mission. India’s first satellite ARYABHATTA was sent long back into space on April 19, 1975. It was named after famous scientist of ancient India ARYABHATTA (476 AD- 550 AD) who suggested for the first time the HELIOCENTRIC THEORY (Sun at the center and all planets revolve around the Sun) of the Solar System much earlier than ready for COPERNICUS as believed in the western world. Other countries might have moon on their flags but we Indians have our flag on the soil of moon. That is great and with this enthusiasm in our heart we are whole ISRO team for this achievement and said correctly said “There is no failure in science, there is only prayas and prayog(honest effort to know the unknown and its continual application for the benefit of the mankind.)”

Numerous Space Missions has been undertaken by various nations in the world like USA, USSR, JAPAN, CHINA, ISREAL etc. All missions are not successful. Out of total 109 Moon missions from 1958 onwards only 61 missions are succeeded. As many as 46 missions involving landing on lunar surface was attempted, out of which only 21 was successful.

Hence our effort for the moon mission is only 2nd attempt and so is not a failure on our part if we see the overall attempts conducted by other Nations.

USSR was the 1st to send the man-made object LUNA 2 to land on moon on 13 Sept 1959, but it was planned for HARD LANDING. In 1966, 31st January, SOFT LANDING was done by LUNA 9 of USSR successfully on moon.

NASA after many attempts was successful to send first manned mission on moon by Apollo 11 on 20th July 1959. Neil Armstrong was the first man to walk on moon.

India’s famous film actor Akshaya Kumar has declared to donate his full profit from the movie MISSION MANGAL for our next moon mission CHANDRAYAN -3.
